

CHIARA FUMAI

Chiara Fumai (Rome, 1978) is an Italian artist known for her performative and multi-media works featuring psychic abilities, anti-spectacle strategies and counterculture icons. She participated to dOCUMENTA(13) with a one-hundred-days performative freak show based on Italian radical feminist literature (The Moral Exhibition House, 2012), channeled the spirit of an Anonymous Woman in the historical art collection of the Querini Stampalia Foundation in Venice (I Did Not Say or Mean 'Warning', 2013) and created a fictional propaganda of Solanas' S.C.U.M. Manifesto mirroring the first political campaign of Berlusconi (Chiara Fumai reads Valerie Solanas, 2013), with whom she received the IX Furla Art Award . On occasion of Contour 7, The Biennial of Moving Image, she has rewritten the story of her live acts into a seance (The Book of Evil Spirits, 2015).

Before getting involved with performance art she worked internationally for many years as dj of underground techno music.

She is based in Milan.
